One day, Sam went to the attic and found a black box. He went down to his room and opened the box immediately. Suddenly, a genie came out. Sam said, "Who are you?" The genie said, "I am a genie. Thank you for saving me from the box so I will grant you a wish." Sam said, "I want something that can help me with my homework." The genie said, "Okay!" Then the genie conjured a big fan from his hat immediately. Sam asked, "What is this?" The genie answered, "This big fan can help you with your homework. And I will leave soon." "Why?" Sam asked. The genie said, "Because I will go back to the kingdom of genies, goodbye." Then the genie left.

Sam waved his fan at the homework and found out that his homework was done, so he said, "Wow, it was nice, I don't have to do any homework now. I'm so happy."

Sam watched TV happily and stayed late at night. He also ate some snacks but he accidentally knocked them over. He was scared and wanted to fix. He then continued watching TV happily after he tidied things up.

Sam would return to school as usual on the next day. Suddenly, the teacher said, "It's test time now." Sam didn't revise for the test because he forgot about the test yesterday. He looked at the paper sadly. After that, he got the zero score. Sam said disappointedly that I will try my best to revise the book. After returning home, he worked hard to warm up the book.

One day, Sam found a box and he opened the box. There was a magic fan.

The genie of the fan talked to Sam and told Sam that the fan could help him to complete his homework. Sam was very happy to hear that. He used the fan to finish all his homework. He also didn't do revision for the test on the next day.

He spent the whole afternoon playing video games, reading comics and watching cartoons until midnight. He went to bed at 1 a.m.

On the next day, Sam woke up late. He could not catch the bus. He was late for school.

He had an English test on that day. He didn't do any revision because he thought he had a magic fan and he could use it during the test. When he was doing the test, he found the questions were very difficult. He wanted to use the magic fan, but he could not find it. Therefore, he needed to complete the test by himself.

Finally, he got 0 mark. He was very sad and regretted. He wouldn't rely on the magic fan again and would not use the fan again and would do all his work and revision by himself.
